

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

PREFACE

LEONARD ABRAHAM BRADLEY was a descendant of ALLEN BALL through MARY BALL (daughter of DEACON STEPHEN BALL), who married ABRAHAM BRADLEY, his grandfather.

ABRAM BRADLEY, as he was generally known, was born in New Haven, Connecticut, March 14th, 1833, and graduated at Yale College in the Class of 1855, of which he was the Vice-Secretary for many years. After studying for a few months at the Union Theological Seminary of New York, he decided to follow the law as his profession. He graduated at the Yale Law School, '55-56, and was admitted to the Bar Association of New York in 1858, and to the Connecticut Bar in 1870. He resided in New York for thirty years and was for a long time in the office of STRONG & CADWALADER, whose Senior partner, MR. CHARLES E. STRONG, was his cousin. MR. BRADLEY was a well known Real Estate specialist. He never married and passed away in New Haven, April 18th, 1898.

* * *

MR. BRADLEY commenced his genealogical studies soon after leaving College. This MS of the BALL GENEALOGY, dated October 21st, 1864, was the second of his studies on the subject, and it seems to have been then completed and ready for the press. Just about that period he began the study of the BRADLEY FAMILY. He first prepared his MS including many collateral groups of the family of ISAAC BRADLEY, but finding the work too voluminous, he reduced it somewhat, and in that abridged form it was found at the time of his death. MR. BRADLEY also prepared other MSS relating to his maternal ancestry, the SELLECKS and the ST. JOHNS of Norwalk, but they were left quite incomplete.

* * *

The following pages give evidence of the thorough manner in which MR. BRADLEY carried on his investigations about family history. As his copious foot-notes show, he consulted all available Historical, Real Estate and Probate Records and visited Cemeteries and places of interest connected with the HISTORY OF THE BALL FAMILY. It is a remarkable fact that, as far as our inquiries go, there has been no BALL GENEALOGY up to date as full and detailed as MR. BRADLEY'S, which was written fifty years ago. It is true those inquiries have only related to the New Haven Branch of the BALL FAMILY in connection with the SHIPMAN FAMILY of New Haven, descendants of EDWARD SHIPMAN, of Say Brook (1635).* The only BALL GENEALOGY extant seems to be a fragmentary one in the New England Gen. & Bio. Reg. for April, 1907, and it is to be hoped that this issue may be the foundation for the work of some other BALL descendant who will continue the record down to the present time. It was deemed proper to publish this MS without additions, except an Index for easy reference, as it is desired that it should go forth as a MEMORIAL of our late cousin, LEONARD ABRAM BRADLEY, whose researches command our grateful admiration.

BALL FAMILY.

PART FIRST: THE SURNAME.

The name of Ball is suggestive of sports, and would incline one to think that the first of the name must have been a great ball player, and excelled in the game.¹

But let us look at the manner in which the name is spelt on the New Haven Town Records. Here we find that the name was spelt formerly in divers ways, sometimes Ball, sometimes Balle, Bale, Baell.

Now we find that Baell corresponds to the Anglo-Saxon word Báel, which means a funeral pile; and Ball approaches the Saxon word Báld, denoting bold, audacious; and Lower, in his work on surnames, states that Ball is a diminutive of Baldwin, which latter name is an Anglo-Saxon word, meaning bold in battle (win-battle).²

I am of the opinion that the word Ball means bold, courageous, and implies that the first owner of the name showed himself to be possessed of these qualities in a remarkable degree.

² See Lower's Work, Vol. 1, pp. 150 and 160. Also Bosworth's Anglo-Saxon and English Dictionary.

PART SECOND: THE PROGENITORS OF THE BALL FAMILY IN THE UNITED STATES.

There were many persons of this name who arrived in this country early in its history and settled at various points.

There was one Matthew Ball living in Dorchester, Mass., as early as 1652, and we find his name affixed to a petition to the General Court in 1664, but that is all we know of him.³

There was also one Richard Ball, who, with Mr. Christopher Ball, was added to the townsmen and commoners of Salisbury, Mass., in 1650. Richard Ball removed to Dorchester, Mass., in 1668, "where he remained," it is said, "only for a short time." He was taxed at Cochechae in 1668, and it is mentioned that he was a trader. Probably, by reason of his pursuit, he moved about from one place to another, and while having his residence in one place, his business would compel him to be absent therefrom in divers other places.⁴ There was a Richard Ball, who was made a freeman at Wells, Mass., July 6, 1653.⁵

In the list of "passengers for Virginia, July, 1635," (who were to sail from England that year and who were "examined by the minister of the Town of Gravesend of their conformitie" to the established religion), there appears the name of Richard Ball, aged seventeen. He, with others, "embarked in the Assurance de Lo: Isaack Bromwell and Geo. Bowsie, Master." As "New England in those times was often spoken of as North Virginia" and as many of the emigrants, given in the aforesaid list of passengers, did in fact settle in New England, we are led to presume that Richard Ball (whose name is given in the list aforesaid), also settled in New England, and that he was the same person spoken of above as of Salisbury, Mass., in 1650; of Wells, in 1653, and of Dorchester, in 1668.⁶

We have been unable to determine whether he left any descendants.

Again: There was a John Ball admitted freeman of Concord, N. H., in 1650. It is said that he brought over with him from Wiltshire, England, two sons: (1) Nathaniel, and (2) John. Bond says, that besides these "he probably had other children."⁷ He died November 1st, 1665.

(1). Nathaniel Ball (son of the first John) "settled in that part of Concord which is now a part of Bedford." His wife's name was Mary. "By her he had John, who died July 27th, 1649; Nathaniel, born September 28th, 1649, who died at the age of two months; Ebenezer, Eleazer, John, born August 15th, 1660, and perhaps others."⁸

(2). John Ball (son of the first John) was a tailor and lived in Watertown, Mass. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Pierce, and had the following named children, viz: John, born in 1644; Mary, Esther, Sarah, born in 1655, and Abigail, born April 20th, 1658, and died soon after. His wife became insane and gave much annoyance to the family. After her death he married, October 3rd, 1665, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Fox, of Concord (afterwards of Watertown), and by her had Joseph, born March 12th, 1669-70. He removed to Lancaster in the month of October, 1665, "where he was killed by the Indians September 10th, 1675. His estate was administered by his son John, of Watertown, February 1st, 1677-8" *

Again: There was an Edward Ball living in Branford, Ct., as early as October 30th, 1666. His name appears amongst the signers of a "New Plantation and Church Covenant" for the town of Branford made January, 1667. He removed that year with many of the inhabitants of that town to Newark, New Jersey. He had the following named children, viz: Caleb, Abigail, Joseph, Lydia, Moses and Thomas, of whom the last named was progenitor of a great multitude.¹⁰

Again: Francis Ball, of Dorchester, Mass., removed to Springfield, Mass., and there married, in 1644, Abigail (daughter of Henry Burt). He had the following children, viz: Jonathan, born in 1645, and Samuel. Francis Ball was drowned in the Connecticut River October, 1648. His widow married next year Benjamin Mun, and afterwards, December 14th, 1676, Lieut. Thomas Stebbins.¹¹

¹¹ See Savage's Dic., pp. 106 and 107; also Rev. W. B. Sprague's Historical Discourses; also Farmer's Reg., p. 24. One Francis Ball died in Springfield, January 21st, 1700.

Samuel Ball (son of the said Francis) was admitted free-man from Northampton, Mass., in 1681. He died in 1689, leaving the following named children, viz: Francis, Mary, Elizabeth and Abigail. He also left him surviving his wife Mary, who married, April 11th, 1690, Benjamin Stebbins.

There was another Francis Ball living in Dorchester, Mass., in January, 1664. Whether he was related to the Francis Ball, who removed from Dorchester to Springfield, I have not been able to determine. His name appears among the signers of a petition presented by the inhabitants of Dorchester to the General Court held at Boston, October 19th, 1664. He married Abigail Salter January 27th, 1664, and had the following named children, viz: John, born April 15th, 1665, and died the next year; Abigail, born August 14th, 1667; Francis, born February 21st, 1669-70, and Benjamin, born August 30th, 1675.¹³

We come now to speak of those members of the Ball family who settled in New Haven, Ct.

Two brothers,¹³ named respectively Alling (or Allen) Ball and William Ball, came over to this country probably with the Rev. Mr. Davenport and his goodly company in the year 1637, though their names do not appear on the New Haven Town Records until 1643.¹⁴ It is said that they were members of the congregation that worshipped at St. Stephen's Church in Coleman Street, London, England, over which the

¹⁴ See Hoadley's New Haven Colonial Records, Vol. 1, pp. 125, 139 and 120.

Rev. Mr. Davenport had been rector for some time prior to 1633, and which position he resigned on his conversion to the views of the dissenters. On the return of Mr. Davenport from Holland (whither he went to live on resigning his rectorship) to England, he prepared for departing to America, and many of his old parishioners determined to go with him. Among this company, as we have stated (tradition informs us), were the two brothers, Allen Ball and William Ball, and also Thomas Fugill and his sister Dorothy Fugill, who became the wife of Allen Ball.

This company of colonists, led by the Rev. John Davenport and his friend, Theophilus Eaton, "arrived at Boston in the Hector and another ship on the 26th of June, 1637." The company subsequently sailed from Boston for the spot previously selected for them by Mr. Eaton and others of their associates, in the spring of 1638, and arrived at their destination April 14th, 1638. The spot thus selected for the settlement was then known by the Indian name of Quinnipiac, and afterwards by that of New Haven in the Colony of New Haven.

On the 25th of October, 1639, the officers of the colony were chosen. Theophilus Eaton was chosen for Governor, and Thomas Fugill as one of the four Magistrates elected and as Secretary. Thomas Fugill¹⁵ filled the office of Secretary for six successive years. He was also chosen one of the seven pillars of the church formed in 1639.

William Ball died in New Haven, intestate and probably without issue, in the month of April, 1648. The inventory of his estate, taken on the 30th of April of that year, was presented to the Court held at New Haven. The amount of his estate was £13. 0. 9d.¹⁶

The oath of fidelity was administered to Allen Ball on the first of July, 1644.¹⁷

It appears that the said Allen Ball, together with his wife, Dorothy Ball, and Goody Ball (perhaps his mother), were concerned as principal witnesses in a slander suit brought to trial before the court held at New Haven September 1st, 1646.¹⁸

Thomas Fugill (having fallen out with the New Haven authorities and been excommunicated and fined for taking more land than his proportion and falsifying orders) became exceedingly dissatisfied with his treatment by the rulers and determined to return to England. He returned to his native land in the year 1646, and we find that Allen Ball and his wife were present to see their brother off; for at a court held at New Haven October 6th, 1646, Allen Ball was complained of for several matters, one of which was "that he was late on training day in the afternoon," but he was excused as "he was with his sister Fugill upon her departure."¹⁹

Prior to the departure of Thomas Fugill for England, he exchanged certain of his lands situate in the town of New Haven, and known at present as Ball's Spring, for land owned by his sister, Dorothy Fugill, and situate in London. It is in this manner that the Ball Spring property came into the Ball family and it has remained in their possession up to quite a recent period.

We proceed now to speak of the Balls of Virginia. Colonel William Ball, their progenitor (it is said), came over from England with his family about the year 1650 and settled at the north of Corotoman River in Lancaster County, Virginia, and died in 1669, leaving two sons, William and Joseph, and one daughter, Hannah (who married Daniel Fox). William Ball (son of the said Colonel) died leaving him surviving eight sons and one daughter. Five of the sons of the said second William had in the year 1779 male issue.

Joseph Ball (another son of the said Colonel William Ball) had male issue, but it was long since extinct. The youngest daughter of the said Joseph Ball was Mary, the mother of George Washington. Washington's mother was twenty-eight years old at the time of his birth on the 22nd of February, 1732, new style.³⁰

We are told, on the other hand, by Irving in his "Life of Washington," that Mary Ball (the mother of Washington) was the daughter of Colonel John Ball, of Bridges Creek, Virginia. There is then a conflict between Irving and Lossing on this point, but Lossing is undoubtedly correct, as what he states is evidenced by written statements to that effect on the back of the coat of arms handed down in the Ball family of Virginia and given in his "Mount Vernon and Its Associations" referred to in the note.

Irving also states that the said Mary Ball was the second wife of Augustine Washington, of Bridges Creek, County of Westmoreland, Virginia, and was married to him on the 6th of March, 1730, and was then, to use his language, "a young and beautiful girl, said to be the belle of the Northern Neck." She was not only justly celebrated for her beauty, but was also at the same time known to possess eminent qualifications for her position as head of a family. "A lady of the 'old school,' possessed of a strong mind and sound judgment, she united with great simplicity of manner, energy, honesty, and truthfulness. Her house, the home of hospitality, was also the home of order, neatness, economy, and domestic industry. She was a strict disciplinarian, and by her decision and consistency of character, she obtained over her children and dependants an uncompromising but benign control."²¹

This model for American mothers departed this life in the month of August, 1789, at the age of eighty-three years.

PART THIRD: THE BALL COAT OF ARMS.

In speaking of the Ball coat of arms we shall confine ourselves to that handed down in the Virginian and New Haven branches of the family.

That belonging to the New Haven branch is Argent a Lion passant Sable on a chief of the second, three Mulletts of the first. Crest—a stag trippant proper.

Motto: "Semper Caveto."

This was handed down in the family and a copper plate containing them is in the possession of Hon. Flamen Ball, of ²¹ See Irving's "Life of Washington," Vol. 1, pp. 17, 23 and 24; also Schroeder's "Life and Times of Washington," Vol. 1, pp. 13 and 19.

Cincinnati, O., who inherited it from his father (Flamen Ball, Esq., of New York City), who died in 1816, leaving a will, dated February 19th, 1816, wherein he devises, besides other things, his family Bible and "copper plate with the Ball's arms thereon engraved" to his son, Flamen Ball.²²

Mr. Ball, of Cincinnati, very kindly enclosed to me an impression of the arms taken from the copper plate mentioned.

According to the information given to Mr. Ball by his father this coat of arms was "granted some three or four hundred years since to Sir Richard Ball, Baronet, and has been in the family ever since."²³ I will hereafter notice why I think that this coat of arms was not granted to Sir Richard Ball, Baronet, three or four hundred years since.

And now as to the coat of arms as preserved by the Virginian branch of the family.

The following meagre description is given by Lossing in his work entitled "Mount Vernon and Its Associations:" "In the possession of a Virginia family may be seen a picture, in which is represented a rampant lion holding a globe in his paw, a helmet and shield, a vizor strong, and a coat of mail and other emblems of strength and courage, and for a motto the words from Ovid: "Coelumque Tueri."²⁴

On reference to Burke's Heraldry the only description of any Ball coat of arms answering to either of those above named is the following: Argent a Lion passant sable on a chief of the second, three mullets of the first. Crest—Out of clouds proper a demi lion rampant sable powdered with estoiles argent holding a globe or.

As Mr. Henry Hays, of New York City (one well versed in Heraldic lore), says: "The description given by Lossing of that in the possession of a Virginia family in every respect answers that above found in Burke, which also suits that in the possession of the New Haven family, the only difference being in the crests and mottos. The additions of a helmet and other like designs are not properly part of the coat of arms, but of necessity appertain to every one. And as to the different crests and mottos, it is to be remarked, that this amounts to nothing, as different members of the same family frequently adopted different crests and mottos. For instance: The Lord St. John of Bletshoe, England, wore the same arms as the Lord Bolingbroke (family name St. John), and rightly, but the two branches wore different crests and different mottos."²⁵

Now, whatever may have been the reason why the New Haven branch of the Ball family adopted a different crest and motto (which is a matter of no importance), yet we find both branches possessing the same coat of arms, to-wit: "Argent a Lion passant sable on a chief of the second, three mullets of the first," and this identifies the two branches as belonging to the same immediate family, and makes the presumption very strong that the progenitors of the two branches were brothers. Probably the progenitor of the Virginian branch was the elder brother.

But, furthermore, respecting the person to whom the arms were granted, I would say, that on sending through Mr.

²⁵ See Burke's Peerage, and also Collins Peerage.

Henry Hays, of this city, to the Heraldry office in London, England, I learned that the above arms and crest as described in Burke's Heraldry were granted by Sir William Segar Garter, 22nd of December, 1613, to Richard Ball, Doctor of Divinity, the son of Lawrence Ball, of Northampton. From this it would seem that the information obtained by Hon. Flamen Ball, from his father, that the arms in his possession, as above described, were granted to Sir Richard Ball, Baronet, three or four hundred years since, is incorrect, and that they were truly granted to Richard Ball, Doctor of Divinity, in 1613.

We find the name of the grantee was correctly given, but not his rank nor the time of the grant.

From this further evidence of the grant and the name of the grantee coinciding with that given by tradition, we have still stronger evidence that the progenitors of the New Haven and Virginian branches were of the same immediate family and must have been brothers, for the time when the grant was made, in 1613, to Richard Ball, D. D., closely approaches the time when they settled in this country.

PART FOURTH: GENEALOGY AND HISTORY OF THE BALL FAMILY OF NEW HAVEN, CT.

We have shown in the third part of this history the relationship subsisting between the progenitors of the New Haven and Virginia branches of the Ball family and we will not repeat here.

Allen, or Alling, Ball, as we have stated before, was the progenitor of the New Haven branch. In the year 1650 he became the farmer of the Rev. Mr. Davenport by appointment. The farm, of which he thus received the charge, was laid out in the year 1649 "on the East side of the East River," being a tract of land a mile square, containing six hundred acres, above Dragon (now Fair Haven). "While in Rev. Mr. Davenport's employ he was exempted from militia service."²⁶

Alling Ball obtained a farm for himself in 1703, "north of the Davenport farm."²⁷ He was a prominent man in the village of East Haven, and was often entrusted by his fellow citizens with matters of public trust, as was also his son, Alling Ball, Jr. It would be useless, however, to cite here the numerous instances in which the public confidence was exhibited towards both father and son.²⁸

From time to time they were enabled to add to the real estate which they already possessed, and the town records indicate the growth of their prosperity.²⁹

Alling Ball, Jr., was appointed a Captain in the militia service during the Indian difficulties in 1689, when the town of East Haven "prepared a flying army, which stood ready to march at a moment's notice."³⁰

We proceed now to give the genealogical history of this family from the first Alling Ball, tracing out all his descendants, so far as we have been able to do this, down to the year 1864—

Ballston Spa, though it is no longer famous for its mineral waters, the old springs having been destroyed by a freshet or overflow of an adjoining creek. There are, however, still two springs existing which retain some mineral properties of little value. The family Bible of John Ball (son of Rev. Eliphalet Ball), in possession of Mrs. Pell, daughter of John Ball, says, that Rev. E. Ball was ordained a minister of the gospel at Bedford, in Westchester County, N. Y., in the year 1750, that "he was second son of John Ball, whose father John, and grandfather John, came over from England about year 1630. The Rev. Eliphalet Ball was a minister of gospel in Bedford for 18 years; he then removed to Ballston in 1769." It will be perceived that there are two or three errors in this statement in the family Bible, which only proves how little family records are to be relied upon. I am indebted to Cousin Grace Daggett, of New Haven, Ct., and Mrs. Joshua L. Pell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Hon. Flamen Ball, of Cincinnati, for information respecting the family of Rev. Eliphalet Ball and descendants. Hon. Flamen Ball spells name of wife of Rev. Eliphalet Ball Van Fleming. Rev. E. Ball had no issue by his second wife. See also tombstones of Rev. E. Ball, wife and some of his children in Bridge's Burial Ground in Ballston, N. Y.

² Mrs. Elizabeth Ball's father was a respectable citizen of Rye, Westchester County, N. Y. She died in Richmond, Berkshire County, Mass., æ 54. The family Bible of Mrs. Pell's father, before referred to, states that Mrs. E. Ball died October 23rd, 1822, which is a mistake, as Rev. E. Ball did not die till 1797, and was married a second time.

81. ALEXANDER GORDON, b. May 15th, 1784; d. August 30th, 1793, æ 9 yrs, 3 mos. and 15 days.

² James Gordon came over to this country from Ireland. First he came alone and settled in Ballston between 1770 and 1774. He afterwards returned to Ireland and brought back with him his mother, Martha Gordon (relict of Alexander Gordon) and two sisters, viz: Jane Gordon (who married George Scott, the grandfather of Judge George Gordon Scott aforesaid), and Sarah Gordon (who married William McCrea, brother of Jane McCrea, who met with such a tragic fate in Revolutionary times). Sarah Gordon, or Sarah McCrea, lived and died in New Jersey. Jane Scott, née Gordon, lived and died in Ballston, and Martha Gordon, mother of James Gordon, died in Ballston, February 26th, 1775, æ 75. See her tombstone in Bridge's Burial Ground at Ballston.

Gen. James Gordon was Representative for the Saratoga District and member of the Second and Third Congress from 1791-1795. He was a member of the New York State Senate from the Saratoga District from 1777-1804. In the Revolution he was taken prisoner in 1780 by a detachment of Indians and British from his house, and taken to Montreal, and finally to Quebec, and placed on Orleans Island, and from thence, with others, he escaped about the time of the declaration of peace.

Mrs. McCrea (née Sarah Gordon) left one daughter, who married a Van Dyne, and they have children living.

James Gordon was born October 31st, 1739, old style, at Killead, two miles from the town of Antrim, County of Antrim, Ireland.

¹I am indebted to Cousin Grace Daggett and Auntie Hunt for much information respecting their family. Much information was also gathered from the N. H. Town Records, and especially from the tombstones in the family lot in New Haven Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Naphthali Daggett* was born at Attleborough, Mass., September 8th, 1727. He was Pastor of the Congregational Church at Smithtown, Long Island, from 1751 to 1755; Professor of Divinity in Yale College from 1755 to the time of his death, and President of Yale College from 1766 to 1777. He married Sarah Smith, daughter of Richard Smith, Esq., of Smithtown, L. I., December 19th, 1753. Rev. Mr. Daggett died in New Haven November 25th, 1780. His wife Sarah died before him in the same place, March 25th, 1772, aged 44 years. The Rev. Mr. Daggett had by his said wife the following named children, viz: Henry Daggett, born in Smithtown, October 14th, 1754, and died May 8th, 1755; Sarah Daggett, born in Smithtown (says N. H. Records), April 17th, 1756; Henry Daggett, born in New Haven, February 27th, 1758; Ebenezer Daggett, born in New Haven, December 21st, 1760; John Daggett, born in New Haven March 1st, 1763, and Ezra Daggett, born also in New Haven, April 18th, 1765. Henry Daggett, who married Anna Ball, graduated at Yale College in 1775. In his youth he was an officer in the Army of the Revolution, and afterwards a merchant in New Haven. He died July 20th, 1843, aged 85. Ebenezer Daggett, son of Anna and Henry, was, according to N. H. Town Records, born May 1st, 1787, whereas his tombstone says he was 43 years old when he died in 1837. His true age was probably 50 years. Said Ebenezer graduated at Yale in 1813. He died at Mobile, Ala., December 24th, 1837. John Daggett, another son of Anna and Henry, died at Key West, Fla. Frederick Hunt (husband of Harriet Daggett) was the son of Frederick and Elizabeth Hunt. He was born January 26th, 1783, and died January 11th, 1849, aged 66. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were without issue.

B. at Cincinnati College in 1838, and entered on practice of law in Cincinnati. He was law partner of Hon. Salmon P. Chase for many years, and on the inauguration of President Lincoln's administration he was appointed United States District Attorney for Cincinnati (1861).

³ Flamen Ball, Jr., graduated at Kenyon College; graduated LL. B. at Cincinnati College in 1858. Admitted to Bar of Ohio in 1858. Entered service of United States as Captain of Co. E, Second Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, April 23rd, 1861. He was appointed Captain in U. S. Regular Army June 9th, 1862, and assigned as aid de camp to staff of Maj. Gen. J. E. Wool, and same day detached as A. D. C. on staff of Maj. Gen. J. McDowell, and on 23rd of March, 1863, was still in the service. He is the same Capt. Ball whose gallantry is especially mentioned in N. Y. Tribune and Evening Post of August 11th or 12th, 1862. He belonged not to Pope's body guard, but to McDowell's staff. He has seen much service.

⁵ Allen was named after the first of the name among the early New Haven colonists.

104. JOHN SCOTT ¹ BALL, of New Haven, Ct. He d. October 4th, 1861, æ 55.
 m. Laura Ann Miller, February 20th, 1839. She was living October 21st, 1864.

189. STEPHEN ² BALL, b. October 20th, 1839.

190. JOHN HOTCHKISS ³ BALL, b. April 23rd, 1842.

¹ I am indebted for information respecting John Scott Ball and family to his widow, Mrs. Laura Ann Ball, who also gave me information as to herself and her father's family, viz: Mrs. Ball was born in Lima, Livingston County, N. Y., October 31st, 1820. She was the daughter of Thomas A. Miller, an Englishman, who came over from England in 1814 (probably from Lancaster, Eng.). He was in the English Navy, having been impressed therein, and took the opportunity of deserting on arriving here, not caring to fight our country. He married Pamela Hine, daughter of John Hine, of Orange, Ct. (living two miles from Derby, Ct.). Mrs. Miller died in 1860. Mr. Miller removed from Lima to New York in 1827. His occupation was that of a builder. He died in New York City in 1830, aged about 39 years. He had five children, four daughters and one son (Thomas Miller). The son lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. Two of the daughters are now dead; one of them married John P. Hone, of New York (in Tax Receiver's office); and one married John Scott Ball, and is now living in New Haven, Ct.

² Stephen Ball enlisted as Lieutenant in Co. I, 12th Regiment, Conn. Vol., about three years since. He was recently transferred to the signal service corps, and is now in New Orleans, though the 12th Regt. has been transferred to Gen. Sheridan's Army, in Virginia. Col. Frank H. Peck, of 12th Conn., recently died of wounds received in one of Sheridan's fights. Stephen Ball is married, as will be noted below. Dated October 21st, 1864.

105. FREDERICK¹ BALL. He is living in New Haven, Ct., October 21st, 1864.

201. IDA HUNTINGTON DAGGETT, b. —.

² Frederick Hunt Daggett, living with his parents at the breaking out of the war of secession, took the other side and entered an Alabama regiment in the Southern Army in 1861. He was taken prisoner by the Union forces at the battle of Gettysburg, in July, 1863, and placed with other prisoners in Fort Delaware, and has remained there ever since, well cared for. His relatives here have remembered him, though engaged against the Union. Dated August, 1864.
